

Web Design

“An experienced, London-based graphic designer with a flair for typographic design, illustration and layout. And I can code too, which means that I can deliver a complete project from first concept to final publication, whether it’s for print, UI or web.”

For further samples of my work please visit www.simonsharville.co.uk

Foundry : Online Appraisal System

Working closely with SARD, I had to design and code the front-end of the Foundry system using flat concepts, then using HTML/Haml and CSS/SCSS to style the live system as it was being built in Ruby by the developers.

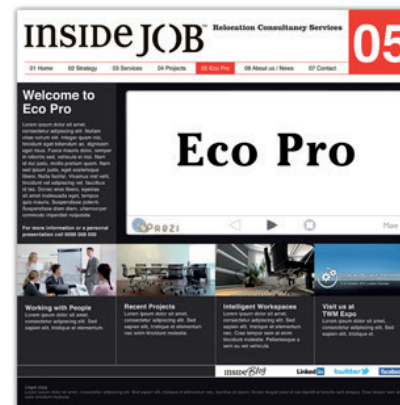

Wildstone Outdoor Media : Website

As part of the brand identity of Wildstone the website needed to use a tight grid structure and colour palette as well as be a responsive design that could be viewed on various devices and could be updated regularly by Wildstone themselves.

Inside Job Relocation Consultants

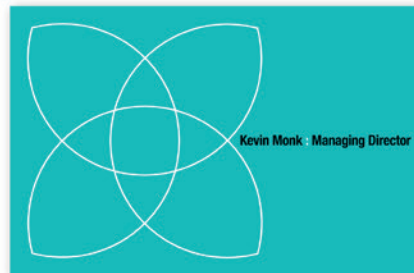

Inside Job were a relocation service that focused on large corporate moves but with a environmental agenda. In partnership with Gunpowder Studios we created a brand identity and website. We got as far as the design process which was all approved when they suddenly merged with another company.

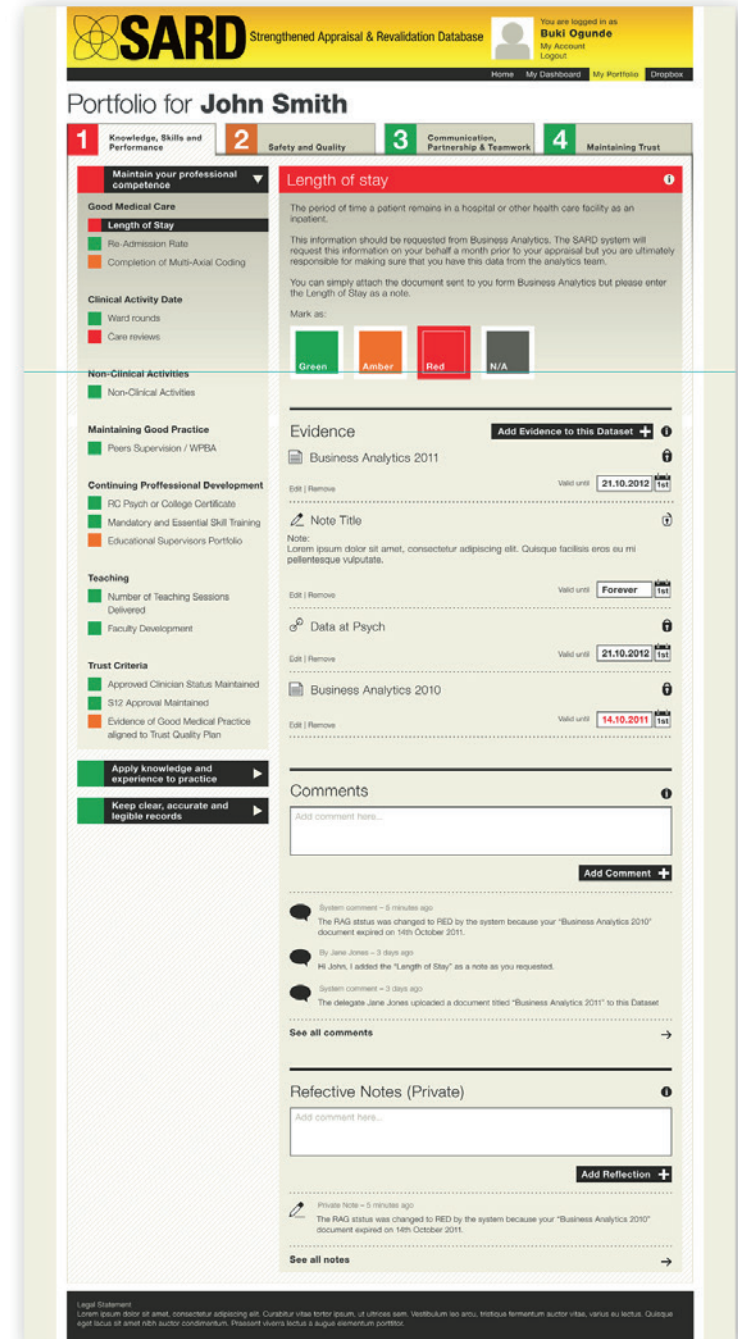

Yangu : Appraisal System

Yangu is an internet based appraisal system for a division of the NHS.
These are a few of my concept designs for the structure of the site and guidelines for creating the email newsletter.

SARD : Appraisal Database

Sard is an online appraisal database for a division of the NHS. Working closely with the developers, I created a Brand ID, Business Cards and designed the structural look of the system.

Association of Illustrators : UP Mail - Email newsletter

As a follow up to the UP Newsletter, I designed the template for UP Mail, their email newsletter.